5 mistakes that quietly inflate your event budget

The costliest line items rarely show up on the first quote.
Here's where the money really goes.

01 MISTAKE

Booking the first venue that says yes

The fastest option is almost never the best value. One genuine comparison usually moves the price, the inclusions, or both.

02 MISTAKE

Negotiating the rate on your own

Venues quote differently to a one-off client than to a buyer they deal with weekly. Relationships move rates more than haggling does.

03

Skimming the minimum spend clause

Food, beverage and room-hire minimums are where budgets quietly blow out. Read them before you fall for the room.

04 MISTAKE

Leaving accommodation to the end

Group rates and room blocks get tighter the longer you wait. Lock delegate rooms when you lock the space.

05 MISTAKE

Choosing on price, not total value

The cheapest room can cost the most once AV, parking and Wi-Fi are added. Compare the whole picture.
